SCOUTING

THE SHOPS with Sally

"Sparkle," said the Editor. "That's what Daly City shoppers want in their column. Sparkle!"

We looked at him meekly and said we'd try. But rage seethed in our heart. How would he like to "sparkle" in the middle of housecleaning? How would he like to look for silver linings with several dozen assorted guests on their way to see the Fair?

● But, worm that we are, we took our appointed rounds. All the silver plumbing fixtures in the window of Pfeiffer's store were "sparkling" brightly, and we suddenly wondered why it hadn't occurred to us before to replace those leaky old water faucets with some shiny new ones. That ought to impress our guests.

● Our guests had also better be impressed with our furniture, all freshly repaired and beautifully re-covered by the Daly City Mattress company. As a matter of fact, we're so impressed ourselves we stand about in wondering admiration half of the time. The lovely part of it is that it cost less than nothing at all.

● Even the housecleaning is fun really with the grand new self-polishing wax at H. H. Smith and company. Works just like a charm—you merely spread it around quickly and easily, and presto—there is your floor gleaming like a mirror. Mr. Smith is making a grand introductory offer in this wax, too, giving away quantities of it absolutely free. See his ad on page 8.

● We know this seems like a silly place to suddenly mention eggs, but did you know that at Robertson's Egg Store you can buy lovely fresh eggs, nice large extras, for only 22c a dozen? We can feed our guests angel food cake now with no compunctions at all about the family budget.

● Speaking of the family budget reminds us that the Daly City Dress Shoppe is featuring a sheer fine-mesh hose guaranteed against runs, which has saved us uncounted dollars. In fact their complete

ORGANIZED "DAY BEFORE HOUSECLEANING" MEALS

As surely as winter turns to spring, the first balmy days whirl you into an orgy of cleaning.

For, in spite of all the work involved, spring cleaning lifts your spirits, and gives you a sense of pride in a job well done. It may, however, spur you on to such heights that unless you've planned your clean-up campaign with all the finesse of an army general, the spring housecleaning orgy may leave you with a shining house, but an exceedingly weary body and a very disturbed family. For housecleaning does need organization. Fortunately, though, a definite plan of action will permit you to keep your household in running order at the same time the housecleaning is going on. Even your meals can be served on schedule, and they can be good-to-eat meals, too.

But when speaking of housecleaning efficiency, remember that a logical starting point for any spring housecleaning program is that of replacing worn-out equipment and of replenishing your stock of cleaning supplies. For the housecleaning procedure itself, be sure to include ammonia, laundry bleach, bluing, furniture and floor polish, and a window cleaner among the other "musts" on your list. For yourself, include a bottle of rubbing alcohol to help remove the stiffness that somehow seems to be an inevitable accompaniment of using muscles not ordinarily accustomed to the arduous, toil of housecleaning time.

Remember, too, that the wisdom of cleaning cupboards, closets, dresser drawers, and book cases before the final housecleaning season arrives means the ability of getting through the housecleaning days with a minimum amount of discomfort and confusion for the family.

A simple meal with a hot main dish that can be prepared the day before housecleaning day is another answer. With this dish, serve foods that require no watching; foods that need not be eaten immediately, and that won't be easily spoiled by standing. Serve the housecleaning meals "help-yourself style" with paper plates if you like, because these are the things that make hot meals practical even in the thick of flying dust mops and brooms. The family will think it's a lark. And there's no need to mention that a hot, well-ordered meal will send you back to work with renewed enthusiasm.

This "Tuna and Vegetable Casserole" recipe solves the problem of the hot main dish that can be made up in advance, stored in the refrigerator, and baked with little or no watching on housecleaning day. Its delightful combination of foods and flavors makes it a nourishing and appetizing dish. The sharp tang of the crisp sweet pickles included in it contrasts pleasantly with the rich flavor of the tuna fish. It is easy to prepare, too, and with it a completely satisfying dinner or supper can be evolved with very little effort.

TUNA AND VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
1¼ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1/3 cup diced celery
½ cup diced onions
1/3 cup sliced cooked carrots

RECIPES

Chocolate Cream Filling

2 cups scalded milk
3 squares chocolate
1 cup sugar
1/3 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs or 4 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
12 marshmallows

Place milk and chocolate in the top of a double boiler. When chocolate is melted beat a moment with wheel egg-beater to insure smoothness. Mix dry ingredients, add eggs slightly beaten and pour gradually the scalded milk into this mixture. Cook 15 minutes in double boiler, stirring constantly until thick. Cool partially, flavor and spread one-third of the chocolate filling between the layers. Place the remainder on top and dot with the marshmallows, cut in halves.

Burnt Almond Frosting

1/2 cup butter
1 1/2 cups confectioners' sugar
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup almonds

Cream the butter, add the sugar and the egg yolks. Spread on the cake when ready to use. Blanch the almonds, bake in a moderate oven until light brown. Cut in pieces and sprinkle on the frosting.

Orange Butter Filling

2-3 cup sugar
1-3 cup flour
Salt
2 cups orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
2 eggs or egg yolks
2 tablespoons butter

Mix sugar, flour and salt. Add orange juice and rind slowly. Stir until smooth. Cook 15 minutes over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and afterwards occasionally. Pour some of the hot mixture into beaten eggs and then pour back into hot mixture. Cook over hot water three minutes. Remove from fire, add butter and chill.

Scouting the Shops

line of lovely hosiery, in every size, weight, and color, gives the longest possible service. And don't forget that 13 is your lucky number—12 pairs you buy, but when you come to the 13th, it's free.

● Something else that's free is an amusing "Buddy and Ginger" glass shaker at the Mission Creamery. It even has a monkey climbing a microphone (of all things!). Your child will love it, as well as the can of delicious chocolate beverage (packed full of valuable vitamins), which comes with it—all for 35c. If it's hard to get Junior to drink his milk, here's the answer.

● The answer to several other things may be found at Granucci's Macaroni-Ravioli Factory, where delicious domestic and imported groceries quickly solve the problem of what to give our company (or family) that will be different. Simi and Piss olive oil, by the way, is only $2.00 a gallon at Granucci's now. For other specialties in quality foods, see their displays in the store, conveniently located in the center of town.

● After renovating the house, we turned our attention to John, poor dear. The shapeless pulp that he fondly referred to as his hat we sent post-haste to the Beeson Cleaners—likewise his suits. They came back looking so nice that John's had a Clark Gable complex ever since.

● If you haven't seen that Speed Queen washer and ironer at the Daly City Sheet Metal Works yet, better take a look in a hurry. The sensational combination price which gives you both washer and ironer for less than you would ordinarily pay for washer alone is for a very limited time only.

● When A. M. Harrison announced a new low price of only $149.50 this week on the big six-cubic foot Frigidaire we capitulated with whoops of joy. We now go off to see the Fair, while our Frigidaire turns out frozen puddings, ice-cream, crisp salads, cold drinks just like magic. And even with company here we can cook all our vegetables and things ahead of time and store them in the Frigidaire where they will keep fresh indefinitely. Why didn't we do this before?

● We were especially glad for all that extra storage space when we saw the meat specials at Farmers Meat company this week. We bought an entire leg of lamb (only 26c a lb.), a goodly portion of fresh pork sausage (20c a lb.) for breakfasts, some delicious creamy cottage cheese (only 13c a lb.), and several other assorted items. Everything at Farmers Meat company looks so good and is priced so reasonably that we can't resist.

● Is there anything that will do more for a house than a new set of curtains, we wonder? We're not going to brag, but you should see our living room now! And we'll let you in on a secret—those lovely new ecru curtains cost us only 49c each this week at Henry Warshawski's. (We might mention we also stocked up on colorful new slacks and blouses there for the summer's outings).

● The bargains at Milo's this week are really sensational. For example, large cans of tomatoes are selling 2 for 15c, Jello at 4c, matches at 3c. And did you know that at Milo's you get cabbage free with every 50c purchase or more of corned beef? (Milo's corned beef is delicious). If you're looking for fish for tomorrow night Milo's is the place to find a complete and tempting array. Large Shasters spuds are 10 pounds for 15c.

● Why do guests always forget to bring facial tissues with them? We don't know either. Anyway at Edwards Drug Store's big May sale we stocked up—250 tissues for only 10c. Then we saw that pure baby castile soap was only 5c a cake this week, and we bought as for quintuplets. (Besides, we use it to wash our hair.) Mineral oil, bathing caps, sun tan oil are but a few of the specials for this week only.

● With company coming, we were glad to know about the delicious ready-made salads at the Cut-Rate Market. You can buy either potato or macaroni salad and cole slaw, 2 pounds for 25c. It makes us hungry just to think about them. Cut-Rate's avocados (5c) are always grand, too, mellow and large. And this week they are featuring immense jars of apricot and youngberry preserves at only 25c. You'll really have to stop in and see for yourself.

● We stopped at Byrne's radio

Pleated Skirt in Summer Fabrics

Skirts and blouses are usually on the wane by the time really warm weather sets in and the lightweight suit usually is the only opportunity for continuing this casual style. But not so this year, at least if the prominence of spun rayon, linen and cotton skirts are any indication.

The pleated all-round skirt is especially good in summer fabrics, which may account for the increased popularity, and not only the skirt departments but the blouse and summer sweater departments are preparing for much activity instead of a lessening of it.

store to ask them to service our radio, (just like new for only $1), and fell in love with a stove. It not only cooks, but also has a wood or coal circulating heater, a lovely immense oven, a table top, and best of all, a streamlined broiler that slides in and out at the touch of a finger. If you buy a stove without seeing this one first, you'll be sorry!

● Guess what's coming to the Daly City Theater Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday? W. C. Fields and Edgar Bergen in "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man." Hmmm—we wonder. Anyway with Fields and Bergen supporting the opposition, we wouldn't miss it for worlds.

● At Lucca Ravioli company we found a special treat for all World's Fair guests—fancy Kentucky wonder beans, fresh and d crisp, 2 pounds for 15c. We can hardly wait to cook them. We also bought some nice Zucchini, 5c a pound, and strawberries at 5c a basket. Lucca's fresh fruit and vegetable displays are simply beautiful, if we do say so, and make us even more of a glutton than we already are. The nice thing is that the food is not only luscious and tempting, but reasonably priced.

Ever-Beloved Dotted Swiss Is Stylish for Little Girls

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MORE and more fine cottons are gaining recognition from the high-style viewpoint. Fashion exports perfect triumphs galore this coming summer for gingham, for piques of various types, for chambrays, and because of the emphasis placed on the importance of dainty lingerie effects there is a special rush for the most lovely Swiss sheers, particularly the charming crisp and sprightly cloque organdies that need little or no ironing, and the delectable shadow prints, and above all the beloved dotted swisses and dotted voiles that seem prettier than ever this year. Everybody is going to dress in attractive cottons most of the time this summer. According to crystal gazers that peer into fashion futures, this will be the biggest, the most exciting, the most style-revealing year that cottons have ever known.

Now for a word of warning to big sister and mother and grandma and all the elder cousins and aunts that plan to wear these beguiling cottons, if they think they are to play the star roles in the cotton parade, just let them wait and see the sensation that the little folks will create in their cunning cottons during the coming months.

Time has not dulled the charm of that adored standby, fine dotted Swiss. The right kind of dotted sheers for mothers to buy for their children is the genuine Swiss types, the tied-in dots of which are fast color, making laundering a very simple and absolutely safe procedure.

Just to get a foretaste of how irresistible lovely little girls will look in their dotted swisses and dotted voiles this summer, take a good look at the three models illustrated. Imported dotted Swiss in rose pink makes the charming and practical frock for the winsome little miss to the left. Pin-tucked net and ruffled lace edging trim the collar, the vestee panel and the puff pockets. A self fabric sash ties in a bow at the back.

The ever-popular imported dotted Swiss voile that works up so beautifully in little girl's frocks, is used for the choice little dress which the member of the young generation centered in the picture is wearing. Fine smocking in bright rose-red decorates the attractively gathered waist. This clever needlework, so gay and so chic, imparts a French air to the simple styling of the frock. Short puffed sleeves and a young round collar are flattering details and in excellent taste.

The important member of the youngest generation seated to the right in the picture, is wearing a cunningly styled frock made of choice pink Swiss organdy with large white embroidered dots. The wide collar, the short puffed sleeves and the front buttoned closing are edged with white Val lace. This

Terry Pin's Tips on Taking a Walk

By FREDERIC A. BIRMINGHAM

© Consolidated News Features, Inc.—WNU Service.

WALKING is the healthiest thing in the world, say people who never do.

You need old clothes, shoes with thick soles, and a good car. The car takes you where you want to walk, usually far away. The old clothes make the ride there comfortable. The thick soles help support the neighborhood cobbler.

A stick is necessary to walk. It is good to keep around the house, proving you are a wholesome person.

Before starting to walk, pick an objective. It is nice afterwards to wonder how the objective would have looked if you ever got to it.

A knowledge of cloud formations and wind currents helps walkers. This knowledge makes it very easy to discover a violent storm coming up just as you are about to start. The ride home is very enjoyable.

diminutive society queen wears a pink satin hair ribbon to match the little bow at her throat.

And here's a final choice bit of news in regard to what fashionable little girls will be wearing this summer. It is all about the adorable sheer little shirtwaists styled in the "baby" type such as are sponsored for grown-ups of sheerest batistes and organdies or swisses or voiles. They are lace-trimmed and hand-tucked to the queen's taste.

Notes For the Kitcheneer

One third cup cooked peas
1/3 cup coarsely chopped sweet pickles
7-ounce jar tuna fish, coarsely flaked
2/3 cup buttered bread crumbs
Melt 2 tablespoons of the butter in saucepan, stir in flour, add milk, and cook until thickened and smooth, stirring constantly. Add salt and pepper. Sauté celery and onions in remaining butter until lightly browned. Add carrots, peas, and pickles. Place alternate layers of the vegetable mixture, tuna fish, and sauce in buttered baking dish. Top with buttered bread crumbs and bake in moderately hot oven (375°F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Yield: 6 portions.

Add to this preliminary preparation the housecleaning meal plan which we have just discussed and even the more strenuous days of housecleaning will take on what may become almost an air of adventure. And finally, there comes a day when once more the house is spic and span—the family cozy and comfortable. Housecleaning is over for another year, but with your new housecleaning organization its departure has taken with it your dread of its return.

Twed the Thing For Travel Coat

If you are going to the New York fair or the San Francisco fair a coat of tweed's the thing for travel. When it comes to choosing the plaid or the stripe woolen fashion bids you "make it snappy." Choose just as big and as bold stripes or plaids as you please. You will find a coat of handsome tweed your best friend that will prove indispensable on your trip.

For Happy Packing
Traveling necessitates fabrics that take well to packing. Jersey was seemingly ordained for this special function.

Hands are going the way of the rest of the ultra-feminine cycle at the moment and from being brisk and brown must now be pale, pink tipped and look decorative instead of useful.

FOURTH ADVENTURE OF LITTLE MITE

LITTLE MITE, the smallest and smartest of the four babies of Danny Meadow Mouse, who had run away to see the Great World, wished with all his might that he never had thought of leaving his dear, safe home. He had been so sure that he was smart enough to take care of himself, and now already he had had three dreadful adventures, and the fact that he was still alive was not because of his own smartness, but because of good fortune. He had been lucky; that was all. The Great World, which, as he had peeped out at it from the safety of his home, had seemed such a wonderful place, now seemed a very dreadful place.

First he had had all his breath knocked out of him by Bossy the Cow. It was an accident, but he didn't know this. Then he had been caught by Black Pussy, and had escaped only because the Merry Little Breezes had helped him. He didn't know this, either. Then Minnie the Mole had almost caught him when he had taken a nap in Miner's underground house. Now he wondered what would happen next. He had begun to think that there wasn't any safe place anywhere for a little meadow mouse. He wasn't doing any harm to anybody or anything, and yet it seemed as if the whole Great World had turned against him. He shivered with fright as he wondered what he should do next and what would happen to him next.

"The first thing to do is to find a safe hiding place," thought he, "and I believe I'll do it at once." This was the very wisest thing that Little Mite could possibly do, and it showed that at last he really had begun to learn. He was just about to start out to look for a hiding place when he heard footsteps. He pricked up his little ears and listened with all his might. He wondered if it might be a friend who would help him. The trouble was he didn't know who were friends and who were enemies. Nearer and nearer came those footsteps. Somehow they didn't sound like the footsteps of a friend, because—well, because they had a stealthy sound as if whoever was making them was trying to make no sound at all.

Nearer and nearer they came. Little Mite didn't know what to do, so he did nothing. He just sat still, his heart going thump-thump-thump, thump-thump-thump. Now, it happens that sitting still was just the wisest thing to do. Nearer and nearer came the soft, stealthy footsteps. Then quite suddenly something big and red loomed up right in front of Little Mite. He didn't know for sure who it was, but he guessed. You see, the handsome red coat was enough to make Mite quite certain. And then there was a smell that somehow made him quite sick with fear.

"It's Reddy Fox," thought poor Little Mite.

He was quite right. It was Reddy Fox. Reddy had seated himself, his back to wee, frightened, Little Mite, and was watching something which Mite, down among the grasses, couldn't see. But he could see Reddy's sides go in and out, in and out, as he breathed, and he could hear Reddy lick his chops every few minutes. It was a perfectly dreadful situation! Here he was so close to one of those he most feared, the very one about whom his father, Danny Meadow Mouse, had warned him against most, that he could touch the long hairs of his tail! He couldn't run, because there was no place to run to. All he could do was to sit perfectly still and try to hold his breath. He wished his heart wouldn't thump so. He was afraid that Reddy would hear it.

What if Reddy should happen to turn around and look behind him? Mite made himself flatter than ever at the thought. He hoped that Reddy would keep interested in whatever it was that he was watching so intently. How he did wish for something to cover him up—something to hide under. And almost with the thought something did cover him up. What do you think it was? Why, it was the great, plumy tail of Reddy Fox himself! He had swung it around so that it lay right over Little Mite Meadow Mouse and Reddy knew nothing about it. Little Mite held his breath and wondered if he ever would see home again.

A Spring Interior at Modest Cost

If you are planning to do some spring decorating take a tip or two from the room illustrated here, which was accomplished at small expense. For draperies, the home owner selected a cool looking chintz with chartreuse background and white flowers, having touches of tile red. A dull and rather unattractive oil painting above the divan was replaced with a mirror of polished plate glass, the gleaming surface making the room seem brighter and gay. The divan was treated to a slip cover of chartreuse cotton moire with tile red cordings and two built in cabinets, having a walnut finish, were painted chartreuse on the outside and tile red on the inside. Result, a room filled with the spirit of spring.

Paris Flashes

Smart Parisiennes are decidedly suit-conscious.

Silk, especially bengaline, is advocated for dressy long coats. Everywhere one sees navy or black costumes with pink accents.

Couturiers are enthusiastic in regard to eyelet embroidery for neckwear, hats and petticoat trills.

Many wide-brim straw hats have shallow crowns made of flowers.

Directoire, bustle and "Dutch-girl" influence is reflected throughout current fashions.

Leading designers are turning out separate jackets made of heavy slipper satin.

Costume ensembles highlight print frocks topped with long sheer monotone coats.

Enthusiasm for picturesque crinoline evening modes is expressed throughout couturier displays.

Among the new colors for spring accessories are midnight green and Stop red. Midnight green is being featured in matched bags and shoes of calfskin. Stop red bags with matching gloves point up suits of navy blue and dark grey. All of the lighter blues are also high style colors for spring accessories.

To Fingerprint Liquor Dealers

Beginning Wednesday, May 24, at 10 a. m., the State Board of Equalization will begin the fingerprinting of all liquor dealers in Daly City and immediate vicinity. The fingerprinting will be done under the direction of George R. Reilly, board member for this district, at the Daly City Police Station, 16 Mission circle in Daly City. All holders of liquor licenses, both on-sale and off-sale, will report to the Police Station between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. where their prints will be taken. Those who fail to comply will lose their liquor licenses, Mr. Reilly announced.

Fingerprinting of liquor licensees was inaugurated by Reilly when he took office on January 2 and has been proceeding steadily ever since. Licensees in the City of San Francisco already have been fingerprinted, and the work is progressing now throughout San Mateo county. The purpose, Mr. Reilly said, is to prevent the sale of liquor by persons having a criminal record.

KNOW THYSELF

by DR. GEORGE D. GREER

WHY CAN A PERSON BE SO LONELY WHEN SURROUNDED WITH PEOPLE?

IT IS a well-known fact that one of the loneliest situations in the world is to be in a crowd where you do not know a soul. On the other hand, a person can be equally lonely in a crowd all of whom he knows. If the people are all strangers, he wishes he knew someone to talk to; if they are all his acquaintances, he feels that he is shut out of their laughter and conversation. Real loneliness is, after all, not a matter of isolation or being with people—it is mental, and a type of self-pity.

Cottons to Lead Summer Fabrics

Once Humble Weaves Will Enter Society.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Gingham, a fabric for naive little country girl wear? Not a bit of it! This once-upon-a-time humble weave that so faithfully served in kitchen and garden and in all places utilitarian is suddenly putting on airs, has become a fashion sophisticate. What is true of ginghams is equally true of cotton weaves in general, for this summer you will see cottons of every type entering society just as confidently and proudly as if they were quality-kind woolsens or silks or satins.

It's a fact, and the big news of the hour is that the chic of cottons is being recognized not only for going-about-town wear but for high-brow party and dine and dance evening wear as well.

To keep up with the smartest during the coming months you really must go about attending to the activities of the day in a suit tailored of gingham that reminds you of the very ginghams you wore in your childhood days. Your most stunning gingham is apt to be a simple red and white check. Add a pretty frilly lingerie blouse and the picture will be complete.

Here's another thriller in the fashion career of cottons:

Gray chambray tailored in dress or suit to wear during the daytime rounds about town. Give this the perfect touch by adding collar and cuffs of eyelet embroidered pique and if you are young and petite throw in an embroidered petticoat frill for good measure.

Cotton tweed in herringbone stripe is another exciting discovery. It is being made up in long top-coats, jacket-and-suit twosomes. While it looks just as townlike and travellike as anyone could wish, it has the great advantage of being tubable. You'll simply love a suit of navy or black pique.

New Fabrics Are Heartily Greeted

Even the sober-sides and plain Janes among us have a way of relegating the darker colors and more serviceable fabrics to temporary oblivion, while we revel in the airiness and intoxicating brightness of the cottons and sheers of the merry, mad spring and summer.

We caper into our dimity blouses and chambray frocks, and plant the gayest of inverted straw flower pots, with cambric blossoms budding at the wrong end, on our unoffending heads. Then, with a disdainful sniff at the exotic musks and slumbrous sandalwoods of our last winter's delight, we turn again to the floral scents.

Wearing Sea-Shells

Whether or not you can recite the old jingle, "she sells sea-shells," you are at full liberty these days to wear lots of sea-shells around your neck and wrists.

Style Notes

White lilacs for your lapel
Tweeds for travel is smart style slogan.

Draped coronet turbans is latest millinery news.

Daring combinations of print with plain feature in latest fashions.

Frilly lace-trimmed net blouses reflect "pretty lady" trends.

The now-so-popular gypsy costumes are going notoriously gay.

Long sleeves is latest news for sports blouses.

Mesh scarfs, hoods, snoods and tie-girdles make smart accessories.

Handbags with shoulder straps are voguish and very practical.

Feminine Frills On Shirtwaists

Sportswear is not being neglected, even among the frills and ruffles of the majority of feminine clothes, and the shirtwaist is making a conspicuous appearance, changed in some cases by the addition of pleated and gathered fullness, but still basically the same.

In some instances this style is seen with additional color contrasts, among them one shirtwaist dress with rose top and navy skirt, another with a pink and white striped top and pink skirt, and others solid pastel shirtwaist frocks with contrasting bright cummerbunds around the waist.
